MSA's Stephanie Sciuлло Recognized with Inaugural 2017 In-House Counsel Award

PITTSBURGH, May 17, 2017 – Stephanie Sciuлло, Deputy General Counsel and Director of Litigation for global safety equipment manufacturer MSA Safety (NYSE: MSA), has been recognized by the Pittsburgh Business Times as one of the 10 most accomplished in-house attorneys in the Western Pennsylvania region. Ms. Sciuлло will accept her In-House Counsel General Excellence award at a formal reception at the Westin Convention Center Hotel in downtown Pittsburgh on May 17.

“Stephanie is an integral and invaluable part of MSA’s legal team – and MSA overall – and we are incredibly proud of her for being recognized with this well-deserved distinction,” said Douglas McClaine, MSA’s Senior Vice President, Secretary and Chief Legal Officer. “As Deputy General Counsel and Director of Litigation, Stephanie has delivered multi-million dollar cost savings to MSA through innovative outside counsel management and by applying lean manufacturing principles to litigation management,” he continued. “Her commitment to MSA, to our mission that men and women may work in safety, and to the in-house legal community are truly commendable and worth emulating.”

Ms. Sciallo, who works at MSA’s headquarters in Cranberry Township, Pa., joined the company in 2010 after working for global law firm Reed Smith, LLC as an associate attorney specializing in litigation.

In addition to her MSA responsibilities, Stephanie has worked to better the Pittsburgh in-house legal community as a leader in the industry and as an advocate for gender equity. As an adjunct professor of law at the University of Pittsburgh and Duquesne University, Stephanie designed a course offered at both schools – called In-House Counsel in Modern Corporations – to encourage business-minded action in the legal community.

Just last year, Stephanie launched a Women’s Negotiations Workshop where women law students learned to negotiate compensation, promotion, case responsibility, and client exposure opportunities to help develop empowered women lawyers in our Pittsburgh legal community. She is a graduate from the University of Pittsburgh School of Law and graduated summa cum laude with a bachelor’s degree in politics and philosophy from the University of Pittsburgh.
