

When there's nothing you can do,
there's still something you can do.

Jesus said we would suffer in this world. As much as we would all like to avoid the pain, it's out of our hands. But we can still take steps to walk through the sorrow with peace, and even joy. Inspired by a difficult season of his own, Tony Evans has written this new Bible study to help all those who are facing a tough challenge and those who are doing their best to support them.
